Hi Marc,

Below are the false accusations I have heard:

1) Yanna told Cheng: "She never liked you...She and you (Marc) had different opinions on teaching ethics...She and you (Marc) have different approaches to practice what is required by the NSF. That's also why she quit teaching with you (Marc)..."

2) Yanna's husband told Cheng: "You (Marc) threatened Yanna when Yanna was complaining that you (Marc) are stealing her ethics class materials..."

3) This one is probably not an accusation. I would say it is just an opinion. Cheng agrees on the opinions in Yanna's responding letter to the paper you and Amy wrote and published in ES&T.

4) Yanna told Cheng "You (Marc) knew exactly what was going to happen in Flint according to your experience in DC. She doubted the intention of our involvement in Flint water crisis."...My interpretation is: Yanna thought that we got involved to get fame and money, but not for engineering ethics, as a good scientist or a good human being. We were calculated for everything before we got involved.
